This is a 63-year-old female with a history PEG tube placement.

A supine abdomen image demonstrates a patent tube with its tip overlying the gastric air bubble adjacent to the left side of the lumbar spine at the L2-L3 level. No abnormally distended segments of large or small bowel are noted. A moderate to large amount fecal material is present in the colon. No soft tissue masses or pathologic calcifications are noted. Moderate degenerative change of the visualized thoracic spine and mild degenerative change of the lumbar spine is present.

IMPRESSION:

PEG tube present overlying the gastric air shadow.

No evidence of bowel obstruction or ileus.

Moderate to large amount fecal material in the colon.

Degenerative change of the visualized thoracic and lumbar spine.

Comments: General Quick Comments = Nurse called radiology dept at 10:30pm and spoke with Eddie concerning residents xray for tube placement. He stated that the radiologist at phoebe has not read the report. Notified John Chitoh NP that the xray has not been read or received from phoebe according to xray dept. I wanted to see if he want to resume feeding since resident is a diabetic. He stated no because he was not sure whether the tube is in place and to call the xray dept and tell them this is a urgent order. I notified Eddie in radiology at 10:34pm of John's request and he stated that he would try. I told him to call me back when he gets the results..

0329-0018 RAD/ABDOMEN, (FLAT PLATE) 1 VIEW

HISTORY: Peg tube placement

FINDINGS: Supine view the abdomen was presented.

There is a tubular structure extending across the left side of the abdomen, distal tip projecting over what appears to be the upper lumbar spine. No obvious contrast seen associated with the tube .

Nonspecific bowel gas pattern is seen.

Spondylitic changes visualized lower thoracic as well as all 5 lumbar vertebrae are seen.

Vascular calcification in the pelvic region are identified.

IMPRESSION: Tubular structure seen extending across the abdomen overlapping L1-L2 level.?
Exact location of this reported peg tube as no obvious contrast outlining portions of the GI tract was apparent
